

A poem about our first adventure in hiking

Four adventurous souls drove to the desert for a stroll.
Take this road and that,
the little book said, so finally we reached our goal.

Aden Crater was the place, way out like in outer space.
We hiked a couple of hours, found beautiful wildflowers and lava rocks, looking like lace.

What a glorious day we had,
it made us ever so glad to live in this State that seems heaven made with no time to be sorry or sad

Hildegard

